Plot Summary

Mit decides to make a snowman. Nan watches but is disappointed because the snowman has no face. Nan flies away. She returns first with a carrot for the snowman's nose, then with coal for his eyes and a stick for his mouth. Mit is delighted with the final touch — a hat! Ann, however, is angry when she discovers her missing hat on the snowman. Nan suggests that a bucket be substituted for the snowman's hat. With Ann's help, the bucket is converted to a helmet and the snowman is complete.
